

Baldragon Academy have produced a presentation to support parents and students in preparation for the upcoming SQA exams. The presentation is designed to be used on mobile devices and is completely interactive. There are embedded videos from various websites and video advice from some of our own senior students. The presentation is a 'one stop shop' for parents and students alike, to enable them to access the best advice, materials and support from the internet without spending large amounts of time searching for appropriate resources. Parents and students can dip in and out of the presentation to find the information that they need quickly.

The presentation gives parents practical advice about different revision techniques. These include flashcards, anchoring, mindmapping, traffic lighting, structured response and summary sheets. There are links to practical powerpoint presentations and videos of 'how to' are included. Advice is offered as to the best ways to use past papers to support learning and to prepare for the exam. Some of the very best revision sites that students and parents can access on the internet are provided as links. These are excellent materials, and can be accessed at no cost, to enhance revision and provide a different style of learning. Parents and carers can access articles and videos about stress management and how to support their child during the exam period. Finally there are careers and lifelong learning links that can be used after the exam period to offer suggestions and advice about the options open to students with their results.

Baldragon Academy would like to thank all the businesses, charities, websites and academic institutions for their permissions to use screenshots and logos from their sites.

This presentation can be accessed through <https://sway.com/ah2R03MSwFxC8Dm0>

or by scanning the QR code.

